*Desktop/Laptop, Mobile Web, and Video data for: Meredith's American Baby, Family Fun, and Ser Padres are rolled up into Parents (for 2014 and 2015); TEN's Car Craft and Street Rodder are rolled up into Hot Rod (for 2015).

 Due to a former joint venture with CNN, 2014 web/mobile data for Fortune and Money is not available, and as such, is not reported for these titles. Additionally, in order to appropriately calculate percentage change, Fortune and Money were excluded in their entirety from the current month and year ago data.

Note: Cells with a "-" indicate digital data was either not available, not reported or has no value. Cells with a "+" indicate digital data was not available in prior year.

What's Measured:

- Print+Digital Editions Audience: The unduplicated estimate of the average issue readers (in thousands). GfK MRI measures print + digital editions' net audience (but print only in Teenmark®); Ipsos measures print editions only.

- Web (Desktop/Laptop) Unique Visitors: The reported number of unique P2+ individuals (in thousands) that have visited a website on a desktop or laptop at least once in the specified reporting period.

- Mobile Web Unique Visitors: The reported number of unique P18+ individuals (in thousands) that have visited a website via a mobile device (including iOS and Android platforms) at least once in the specified reporting period.

- Video Unique Viewers: Those unique P2+ viewers (in thousands) who watched a video at least once in the specified reporting period through a player owned or operated by the publisher (regardless of where that video was viewed) and/or, if reported, through a separate, clearly-branded video channel.

Note: In certain instances, the comScore or Nielsen Online data reflects the incorporation of a magazine brand's unique visitors/viewers into a larger domain which includes non-magazine visitors/viewers. In such instances, publishers were asked to provide server-side data for the brand's page views as a percent or share of the larger domain's page views. Such share was then applied to the total comScore or Nielsen Online reported unique visitor/viewer data for the larger domain to derive the appropriate magazine-specific unique visitors/viewers. In certain instances, reported metrics have been derived from small sample sizes which decrease reliability of audience projection.

About Magazine Media 360°

Magazine Media 360° is a new industry metric that captures demand for magazine media content by measuring audiences across multiple platforms and formats (including print+digital editions, websites and video) to provide a comprehensive and accurate picture of magazine media vitality. Magazine Media 360° uses data from leading third-party providers and currently covers approximately 145 magazine media brands from over 30 companies, representing 95% of the reader universe. The data is released around the 20th of each month at www.magazine.org in The MPA Magazine Media 360° Brand Audience Report. Created as a credible, consistent and cost-free measurement tool, Magazine Media 360°, which launched September 2014, marked the first time ever any media industry measured and communicated cross-platform consumer demand by brand. The Magazine Media 360° Social Media Report is released separately.
